Dear Mr. Krishnan,

I have received your letter and postcard regarding preparatory meeting to consider revival of the Swatantra Party. While I can realise the agony in the hearts of ex-Swatantrites over the de-generation of political life in India, I am unable to understand how the addition of one more political party to the large number, already in the field, will help to improve the situation. What India lacks is not political parties, but men of character. However, I would not like to discourage others, who are trying to revive the Swatantra party. I wish them best of luck.

Yours sincerely,
