My dear Mr. Piloo :

I hope my letter of the 8th instant must have reached you and necessary instructions sent to Mr. Bhatia, to pay the proportionate rent of the place occupied by your office. It seems the matter has escaped your attention.

Recently I met Mr. Bhatia on the stair-case of the office when I personally requested him to pay the arrears so that landlord's rent may be paid. He frankly said that he does not want to pay. I don't know whether he is acting himself or under the influence of some body. It is just fair that the rent payable by your office be immediately paid so that payment to the landlord may be regular. I know you are very busy and this is a very small matter and I ^{shd} would not have troubled you, but I invite your attention because Mr. Bhatia does not seem inclined to pay this liability. I would request you to write to me also and send necessary instructions to Mr. Bhatia.

I hope you are keeping happy,

Yours sincerely,

Parmanand Kejriwal
