Dear Mr. Masani,

I have received your circular letter dated November 1, 1967, for which I thank you. Although I entirely agree with you on the basic considerations which have led you to ask the General Council members for a change for the election of the General Secretary of the Party, it gives me a little shock at the same time. Your untiring hard work for the Party and for the ideals it stands for spread over long years will ever outshine. But it is yet to be seen whether the General Council members are going to accept your suggestion for a change at this juncture.

However, I will always look towards you for your valuable advice at all times in the affairs of the Delhi unit of the Party. I very much appreciate the good advice which you gave me last time not to stand for any office for Delhi elections, and as a result I withdrew my name when it was proposed since I want to give my time and energy to the Party as a worker rather than an office bearer.

I believe Mr. Dandekar is one of the ablest members of the Party on whom a great responsibility will devolve in the event of election as General Secretary. But I am sure your guidance of the affairs of the Party is still wanted for many years to come.

With our best regards.

Yours Sincerely,

K. Rekhi
