My dear Mr. Masani,

I draw your attention to an ^{article} ~~article~~ appearing in the Statesman (Delhi Town Edition) dated 22nd of May under the caption "New in Parliament" written by the Parliamentary correspondent of the paper. It is a kind of short life sketch of Mr. Ranjit Singh Mahida M.P. who belongs to Swatantra Party. The article ends thus:-

" He traces his conversion from Congress ideology to the refusal of the Congress to give his army of Khshatrias an adequate share of tickets. The Swatantra Party on the other hand has made him the Secretary of its group in Parliamentary."

It was very tactless or rather childish on the part of Mr. Mahida to give this sort of impression to the correspondent concerned. Kindly see that in future our raw politicians weigh their words more carefully before they utter them. If the correspondent has misinterpreted the talk with Mr. Mahida, the latter should get it contradicted.

Yours Sincerely,

W. Rahman,
