My dear Rajaji,

I am becoming unfit to take part in active politics which necessarily involves journeys and the strain of continuous discussions. As a matter of fact, within the last four months, I had several setbacks to my health, all being the result of such strain.

Every time I am not able to do active work, I feel I am guilty of a breach of duty; that makes me unhappy.

I hope, therefore, you will relieve me from a burden which I cannot carry any longer and replace me by some younger and more effective person as the Vice-President.

With affectionate regards,

Yours very sincerely,

(K.M. Munshi)
