My dear Masani,

I was greatly distressed at the shabby treatment that was accorded to you at the recent meetings of the General Council in Madras. I was particularly disappointed at the manner in which Rajaji gave a wrong turn to the whole issue by quibbling ^{on} at the word "pledge". He, no doubt, queered the pitch for you by such sophistry.

After returning to Bangalore, I felt that I owed a duty to you and to the Party to keep the record straight by writing some thing for the public to think about. I wrote a brief article, which will appear in the next issue of 'Mysindia' and enclose a copy for your perusal.

wishing more power to your elbow
