Dear Mr. Masani,

I understand that the Party office has circulated a note to some or all members of the National Executive, containing points from R. C. Cooper's letter of chargesheet to me, points from my reply dated March 21, and office comments thereon. I should have thought that being the person primarily concerned, a copy of the office notes would be supplied to me so that I could correct inaccuracies or misrepresentations if any. In any case, it is unfair to me that a full copy of my letter should not be placed at the disposal of all those who will meet in the National Executive meeting to consider this case. I suggest that a full copy of my letter may now be supplied to all members of the National Executive. They have a right to know what I have said and they cannot be content with extracts which may not give a true picture of my statement or which may contain statements torn out of the context to suit the particular thesis of the office. The right course is to supply to each member a full copy of Cooper's letter to me as also of my reply to Cooper, and that a copy of the final notes of office should be furnished to me. I suggest that the correct course may be followed in all fairness to me.

Yours sincerely,

C. C. Desai
