My dear J.P.

As promised, I send herewith ^{in duplicate} a draft of a possible statement to be put over the signatures of yourself, Acharya Kripalani, M.A. Palkhivala, myself and some others. Palkhivala is abroad and it has not been possible for me to speak to him. I shall do so when we are both in Bombay (I myself will be away on tour) on 9th October. I shall then try to persuade Palkhivala, subject to any changes he may want to make provided he approves of the company!

You may perhaps at the same time to sound Kripalaniji. Please do feel free to change the draft in whatever manner you feel like so long as it is in support of your own article. If you send me the revised draft, I shall show it to Palkhivala.

Yours sincerely,

Encl:*
